

FILM CLUB 08.02.2017

On Wednesday 8th of February, Cherwell College hosted its 4th, bi-weekly 'Film Club'.

This week, we watched Ex Machina, in which a young programmer is selected to participate in a ground-breaking experiment in synthetic intelligence by evaluating the human qualities of a breath-taking humanoid A.I.

The film was captivating, and posed some serious ethical and philosophical questions about the potential of Artificial Intelligence, as well as the dangers it posed to human life.

The film was interesting both to our science students, who were able to appreciate the enormity of the scientific progress depicted within the film, as well as our humanities students, who could fully appreciate the moral dilemmas posed within the film by the creation of 'life' and by humans 'playing at god'.

Students were able to relax in a friendly environment, and enjoyed snacks with the movie.

In all, the film was a hit and we can't wait to hold our next Film Club night...!
